CALTRANS PROJECT EXAMPLES:

Willits Bypass Project, Mendocino Co. CA

Owner: Cal Trans District 1

BioMaAS provided a team of biologists to provide nesting bird surveys and construction monitoring during a Caltrans road construction project. Caltrans constructed a new segment of Route 101 that bypassed the City of Willits, in Mendocino County, the project coverd a distance of approximately 6 miles. BioMaAS conducted nesting bird surveys, established buffers around nests, provided maps of nest locations, and provided monitoring during tree removal and other vegetation clearing.

Devil's Slide, Hwy. 1 Devil's Slide Tunnel Bypass Project, San Mateo Co.

Owner: Cal Trans District 4, Environmental Department

Team biologists are presently the lead inspection team for biological and environmental compliance for the three contract sites associated with the Devil's Slide Tunnel Bypass Project and involved in coordinating compliance efforts to satisfy all relevant agency permits. This work includes SWPPP review and oversight of erosion control and storm water quality measures in accordance with the county, the California Coastal Commission, and federal and state permits. Environmental construction management consists of team meetings, compliance reports, and coordinating with contractors and Cal Trans Environmental, Structures, and District 4 engineers, and the project management team. Issues of concern include wetlands and special-status species such as California red-legged frog, San Francisco dusky-footed woodrat, nesting birds, and steelhead. Prior to construction we conducted surveys along the tunnel corridor for the special-status species present and conducted a trapping and relocation program for red-legged frogs and a nest dismantling relocation effort for San Francisco dusky-footed woodrats, as well as surveying for nesting birds throughout the entire corridor.

CC4 Discovery Bay Shoulder and Median Widening Project, Discovery Bay, CA

Owner: Caltrans District 4

BioMaAS conducted preconstruction surveys for California red-legged frogs and nesting birds prior to vegetation removal for a road widening project along Highway 4. We also monitored nests of Swainson's hawks and cliff swallows to prevent nest disturbance during construction. We coordinated with the contractor and Caltrans engineering to assure that the work schedule didn't interfere with Swainson's hawk breeding. We also conducted contractor education training and filed daily reports.

101 Auxiliary Lane, Santa Clara County, CA

BioMaAS is currently providing a service approved biological monitor to conduct environmental and biological monitoring on a drain and levee repair project on Highway 37 in Novato. We conducted preconstruction surveys for salt marsh harvest mouse and California clapper rail, as well as a nesting bird survey. BioMaAS conducted a contractor education program and assisted the contractor in ESA fence placement. We are also providing daily on site monitoring and daily and weekly compliance reports.

SR 84 Expressway Widening , Livermore, CA.

Owner: Caltrans District 4

BioMaAS is currently providing a service approved biological monitor to conduct environmental and biological monitoring on a roadway and bridge widening project on state Route 84 in Livermore. We conducted preconstruction surveys for California red-legged frog, and a nesting bird survey. BioMaAS is also conducting a contractor education program to train all project personnel. We are providing daily on site monitoring and daily compliance reports.

Schellville Road Realignment Safety Project SR121/12

Owner: Caltrans District 4

BioMaAS provided a USFWS approved biological monitor, to perform construction monitoring and nesting bird surveys for a road realignment project. We performed daily inspections of equipment, excavations, and wildlife exclusion fencing. Our biologist also completed daily reports detailing compliance issues, conducted contractor education, completed daily updates to nesting bird maps, and removed wildlife from the construction area. Special status species with the potential to occur at the project included the California Red-legged frog.

Old Niles Project, Alameda Co. CA

Owner: Caltrans District 4

BioMaAS conducted pre-construction surveys prior to retaining wall installation on Niles Canyon Road adjacent to Alameda Creek. Special status species potentially occurring within the area included California red-legged frog, Alameda whipsnake, and Central Coast ESU steelhead. We also conducted nesting bird surveys and mapped nests within and adjacent to the project area. We provided contractor education and construction monitoring during night work on buried electrical lines.

Route 92 West Albert Canyon Mitigation Project, San Mateo Co.

Owner: Caltrans District 4

BioMaAS was responsible for environmental and biological monitoring on a culvert repair and creek bank restoration project on State Route 92. Special status species on site included California red-legged frog, San Francisco dusky-footed woodrat, and central coast steelhead. BioMaAS also conducted pre-construction surveys, nesting bird surveys, contractor education, completed daily reports, and removed wildlife from the construction area. After concrete was poured to line the inside of a culvert, an exclusion fence was erected around a plastic detention basin at the pipe outfall to prevent entry by California red-legged frog. BioMaAS conducted daily water tests on the discharge from the pipe after concrete was placed to check the pH and determine when it was safe to be released downstream. Until the proper pH levels were reached, water was pumped from the fenced detention basin and into a truck for disposal.

On-Call Services for Site Assessments, Focused Surveys, and Mitigation Projects for California Red-legged Frog, San Mateo County, California

Owner: Cal Trans District 4, Environmental Department

BioMaAS biologists have provided on-call services to Cal Trans Environmental District 4 Department since 1998. We have conducted tasks primarily involving project site assessments, habitat use, surveys, and trapping and relocation of all life stages of California red-legged frogs. In coordination with Caltran's team, we designed several mitigation ponds and relocated frogs and egg masses in preparation for the current Tunnel Project. This was a joint project conducted in coordination with the State University System to collect data for research on red-legged frog habitat and ecology and used to design suitable breeding habitat for California red-legged frog. These projects were designed as a pilot study to identify critical habitat features for long-term population stability for red-legged frogs in newly created and restored wetland habitats.

Sweet Ranch Mitigation Project, Livermore. CA

Owner: Caltrans District 4

BioMaAS provided a USFWS approved biological monitor to perform construction monitoring and conduct nesting bird surveys at a wetland mitigation site for Caltrans. We monitored vegetation clearing, ground disturbance, wetland creation, grading, and restoration planting in sensitive wetland habitat at a known breeding site for California red-legged frog and California tiger salamander. Our biologist performed daily inspections of equipment, excavations, and wildlife exclusion fencing. BioMaAS completed daily reports detailing compliance issues, conducted contractor education, completed daily updates to nesting bird maps, and removed wildlife from the construction area.

Tyler Ranch Mitigation Site, Sunol, Alameda County, CA

Owner: Caltrans District 4

BioMaAS biologists designed and implemented an Alameda whipsnake trapping program to determine the presence and distribution of this listed species within a proposed Caltrans mitigation site located on Tyler Ranch. Whipsnakes were marked and photographed as part of an effort to ascertain population size. We also conducted aquatic sampling to determine the presence of California tiger salamander and California red-legged frog within wetlands on and adjacent to the property. In addition to special status wildlife surveys, we conducted rare plant surveys, mapped vegetative cover, and conducted wetland delineations throughout the project area.

CALTRANS PROJECT EXAMPLES:

Willits Bypass Project, Mendocino Co. CA

Owner: Cal Trans District 1

BioMaAS provided a team of biologists to provide nesting bird surveys and construction monitoring during a Caltrans road construction project. Caltrans constructed a new segment of Route 101 that bypassed the City of Willits, in Mendocino County, the project coverd a distance of approximately 6 miles. BioMaAS conducted nesting bird surveys, established buffers around nests, provided maps of nest locations, and provided monitoring during tree removal and other vegetation clearing.

Devil's Slide, Hwy. 1 Devil's Slide Tunnel Bypass Project, San Mateo Co.

Owner: Cal Trans District 4, Environmental Department

Team biologists are presently the lead inspection team for biological and environmental compliance for the three contract sites associated with the Devil's Slide Tunnel Bypass Project and involved in coordinating compliance efforts to satisfy all relevant agency permits. This work includes SWPPP review and oversight of erosion control and storm water quality measures in accordance with the county, the California Coastal Commission, and federal and state permits. Environmental construction management consists of team meetings, compliance reports, and coordinating with contractors and Cal Trans Environmental, Structures, and District 4 engineers, and the project management team. Issues of concern include wetlands and special-status species such as California red-legged frog, San Francisco dusky-footed woodrat, nesting birds, and steelhead. Prior to construction we conducted surveys along the tunnel corridor for the special-status species present and conducted a trapping and relocation program for red-legged frogs and a nest dismantling relocation effort for San Francisco dusky-footed woodrats, as well as surveying for nesting birds throughout the entire corridor.

Owner: Caltrans District 4

BioMaAS conducted preconstruction surveys for California red-legged frogs and nesting birds prior to vegetation removal for a road widening project along Highway 4. We also monitored nests of Swainson's hawks and cliff swallows to prevent nest disturbance during construction. We coordinated with the contractor and Caltrans engineering to assure that the work schedule didn't interfere with Swainson's hawk breeding. We also conducted contractor education training and filed daily reports.

101 Auxiliary Lane, Santa Clara County, CA

Owner:Caltrans District 4

BioMaAS conducted preconstruction surveys for nesting birds prior to vegetation removal for a road widening project along Highway 101. BioMaAS monitored active nests and filed daily reports on their status. We coordinated with the contractor and prevented bird nesting in areas which were vital for construction.

MRN 37 Drain Repair Project, Novato, CA.

Owner: Caltrans District 4

BioMaAS is currently providing a service approved biological monitor to conduct environmental and biological monitoring on a drain and levee repair project on Highway 37 in Novato. We conducted preconstruction surveys for salt marsh harvest mouse and California clapper rail, as well as a nesting bird survey. Special status species with the potential to occur at the project included the California Red-legged frog.

Old Niles Project, Alameda Co. CA

Owner: Caltrans District 4

BioMaAS conducted pre-construction surveys prior to retaining wall installation on Niles Canyon Road adjacent to Alameda Creek. Special status species potentially occurring within the area included California red-legged frog, Alameda whipsnake, and Central Coast ESU steelhead. We also conducted nesting bird surveys and mapped nests within and adjacent to the project area. We provided contractor education and construction monitoring during night work on buried electrical lines.

Route 92 West Albert Canyon Mitigation Project, San Mateo Co.

Owner: Caltrans District 4

BioMaAS was responsible for environmental and biological monitoring on a culvert repair and creek bank restoration project on State Route 92. Special status species on site included California red-legged frog, San Francisco dusky-footed woodrat, and central coast steelhead. BioMaAS also conducted pre-construction surveys, nesting bird surveys, contractor education, completed daily reports, and removed wildlife from the construction area. After concrete was poured to line the inside of a culvert, an exclusion fence was erected around a plastic detention basin at the pipe outfall to prevent entry by California red-legged frog. BioMaAS conducted daily water tests on the discharge from the pipe after concrete was placed to check the pH and determine when it was safe to be released downstream. Until the proper pH levels were reached, water was pumped from the fenced detention basin and into a truck for disposal.

On-Call Services for Site Assessments, Focused Surveys, and Mitigation Projects for California Red-legged Frog, San Mateo County, California

Owner: Cal Trans District 4, Environmental Department

BioMaAS biologists have provided on-call services to Cal Trans Environmental District 4 Department since 1998. We have conducted tasks primarily involving project site assessments, habitat use, surveys, and trapping and relocation of all life stages of California red-legged frogs. In coordination with Caltran's team, we designed several mitigation ponds and relocated frogs and egg masses in preparation for the current Tunnel Project. This was a joint project conducted in coordination with the State University System to collect data for research on red-legged frog habitat and ecology and used to design suitable breeding habitat for California red-legged frog. These projects were designed as a pilot study to identify critical habitat features for long-term population stability for red-legged frogs in newly created and restored wetland habitats.

Sweet Ranch Mitigation Project, Livermore. CA

Owner: Caltrans District 4

BioMaAS provided a USFWS approved biological monitor to perform construction monitoring and conduct nesting bird surveys at a wetland mitigation site for Caltrans. We monitored vegetation clearing, ground disturbance, wetland creation, grading, and restoration planting in sensitive wetland habitat at a known breeding site for California red-legged frog and California tiger salamander. Our biologist performed daily inspections of equipment, excavations, and wildlife exclusion fencing. BioMaAS completed daily reports detailing compliance issues, conducted contractor education, completed daily updates to nesting bird maps, and removed wildlife from the construction area.

Tyler Ranch Mitigation Site, Sunol, Alameda County, CA

Owner: Caltrans District 4

BioMaAS biologists designed and implemented an Alameda whipsnake trapping program to determine the presence and distribution of this listed species within a proposed Caltrans mitigation site located on Tyler Ranch. Whipsnakes were marked and photographed as part of an effort to ascertain population size. We also conducted aquatic sampling to determine the presence of California tiger salamander and California red-legged frog within wetlands on and adjacent to the property. In addition to special status wildlife surveys, we conducted rare plant surveys, mapped vegetative cover, and conducted wetland delineations throughout the project area.
